CCTV cameras out of action

Streets have not been monitored in Ely and Soham for up to a month due to 'technical issues'

CCTV cameras in Ely and Soham are not working properly – and might not have been for almost a month.

"Technical issues" have arisen with a new CCTV system being introduced to cover Ely city centre and Soham town centre and police have been forced to "increase patrols in key areas".

The issues have been ongoing for more than a fortnight, although it is believed some streets may not have had effective CCTV coverage for up to a month.

Ely's Mayor, Cllr Lis Every, said she and the City of Ely Council "apologise sincerely" for the issues.

She added: "We can assure our residents that we are doing our very best to restore the system to being fully operational again."

Ownership of the 35 CCTV cameras in Ely and Soham was transferred from East Cambridgeshire District Council to the city council in January, as part of the district council's cost-cutting procedures.

The district council used to pay an annual contribution of £36,415 to help maintain them and fund the control room from where they are monitored, at Ely Police Station.

EXCLUSIVE: BY JORDAN DAY

When it voted to transfer ownership of the cameras, the district council had to provide a one-off payment of £56,000 so that the cameras could be converted from fibre-optic to an updated wireless system, which it said would make them more affordable for the city council and Soham Town Council, which is a member of the CCTV partnership.

But it is during that conversion to the wireless system that the technical issues have arisen, meaning some streets currently have poor CCTV coverage – or none at all.

Speaking on behalf of the city council, Cllr Every said that converting the CCTV system to wireless will save around £40,000 each year.

She said: "As well as being much cheaper, the system also provides a more flexible scheme for the future and was welcomed by all partners."

"However, unforeseen technical difficulties have arisen with the installation and in consequence there has been a reduced service, which will continue until these matters are resolved."

"We had considered reinstating the previous system in the meantime, but we were unable to justify spending tens of thousands of pounds of taxpayers' money, for what should be resolved in the relatively near future."

"At a much lower cost to the taxpayer and working with the police, we have agreed a way to continue to cover key areas in the city, until the new system is up and running."

"On behalf of all the partners involved in this installation, we apologise sincerely for the delay in this. The prize of a more effective and cost efficient system will, we are sure, be available in the near future."

A spokesman for Cambridgeshire Police said: "We are aware of technical issues with the new CCTV system covering Ely and Soham, and are working closely with partner agencies to ensure the issue is resolved as soon as possible."

"We have alternative measures in place while the work is carried out and have increased patrols in key areas."

TASTY TATTIES: Isle of Ely Produce held the event on Monday.

Celebrating importance of our spud

FISH and chip shop owners and representatives from across the UK descended in Littleport on Monday. Isle of Ely Produce, based in Oak Lane, held its annual 'From Field to Frier' event, which is organised for people in the fish and chip trade to teach them more about the process a potato goes through before it arrives at their shop.

The guests, which included people from a far afield as the Shetland Islands and Belfast, also visited P.J. Lee and Sons' potato farm in Sutton Gault.

Guest of honour on the day was National Federation of Fish Friers' president, Gregg Howard.

The countdown to Isle of Ely's fun potato race through the streets of Ely on October 11 is now on. Visit www.isleofely.co.uk.

New era for our train services

THOUSANDS of commuters headed off to the capital from Ely and Littleport stations on Monday morning – on day one of a new era for the region's rail services.

After eight and a half years, First Capital Connect's franchise to run trains on the Great Northern route has reached the end of the line.

This week, new operator Govia Thameslink Railway (GTR) – a joint venture between transport companies Go-Ahead Group and Keolis – took charge not only of the Great Northern route, but also of the giant Thameslink operation, the biggest rail franchise in Britain.

And the company pledged passengers new rolling stock, more seats in the rush hour, and better station facilities.

JORDAN DAY

A spokeswoman said: "We will improve the service for our passengers and make significant investment in the route."

"This will bring new trains, room for passengers on busy rush hour trains, and improvements to stations."

"From 2018 there will also be trains that link Cambridge directly with Gatwick Airport."

Charles Horton, GTR's chief executive, said: "Over time we will be making real improvements to passengers' experience and managing the major changes that are happening on this part of the rail network."

"We've listened to what people want, and will be increasing capacity on busy commuter services, improving reliability and punctuality, introducing new fleets of trains, spending £50 million on station improvements, and investing in our employees' training and development."

GTR's franchise will run for seven years, during which the company has promised £430 million in investment, including new trains, more services and increased capacity.

The firm is also promising to deliver improved reliability and punctuality, more ticket options, better connections and improved stations.

First Capital Connect issued a statement thanking passengers in Cambridgeshire for their "custom and patience."

Family's plea over missing Deborah

JORDAN DAY

THE half-sister of missing Ely landlady Deborah Steel has issued an emotional plea for anyone with information about her whereabouts to speak up.

Virginia Strecker says not knowing what happened to Deborah for almost two decades has been a "heavy burden to carry".

Deborah – the former landlady of the Royal Standard – disappeared on Sunday, December 28, 1997 and has never been seen since.

Ms Steel was 37 at the time and was last seen leaving the pub, in Forehill, at about 1am – reportedly after an argument.

On Tuesday, September 2 – almost 17 years later – a 70-year-old man from Ely was arrested on suspicion of her murder. The arrest was made following the re-opening of the case.

In a statement issued by Cambridgeshire Police this week,

MISSING: Police released new photos this week of missing landlady Deborah Steel

Mrs Strecker said: "Debbie went missing 17 years ago under strange and unexplainable circumstances.

"I knew in my heart of hearts after the first few weeks of her disappearance that she was no longer of this world, as she had made no contact with either myself or other family members.

"At the time, the police exhausted every line of enquiry but to no avail."

Mrs Strecker, 47, from Nottinghamshire, said: "I find it so very sad that our father went to his grave without knowing the truth of Debbie's whereabouts.

"Now the case has been reopened I plead to anyone who knows anything, however minor it may seem to them, to now come forward.

"We are convinced that someone knows about her fate. It has been a heavy burden to carry all these years and all we wish for is the answers so we can lay Debbie to rest at last."

Ms Steel's former home in Longfields, Ely – and its garden – have been searched by crime scene investigators and detectives leading the investigation are appealing for information from people who were customers at the Royal Standard at the time of her disappearance.

The man arrested on suspicion of her murder has been bailed to return to Parkside police station on October 2.

Anyone with information should call detectives on (01480) 425880 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Motorcyclist, 32, injured in collision

A MOTORCYCLIST suffered serious injuries in a collision in Ely.

The 32-year-old man was discovered lying on the grass verge in Lisle Lane at its junction with Lisle Close at around 11.30pm last Thursday. His blue Piaggio 125cc motorcycle was nearby.

Emergency services, including the East Anglian Air Ambulance, attended the single vehicle collision and the man was taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital.

It is believed he had collided with a metal fence and, according to the East of England Ambulance Service, he was in a "serious but stable condition".

Anyone with information about the collision should call Sgt Gordon Murray on 101.

Phones 4U store shuts PHONES 4U stores across the country – including the one in Ely High Street – have closed as the firm has gone into administration.

The company, which is owned by London buyout house, BC Partners, and employs more than 5,500 people, said on Sunday that it had been forced to seek protection from its creditors after two of the UK's largest mobile phone operators – EE and Vodafone – decided to withdraw their products from its stores next year.

Phones 4U stores are now closed pending a decision by the administrators.

Warrant is issued for man's arrest

A MAN charged with causing the death of a 25-year-old woman from Ely failed to turn up at court this week.

Jose Eduardo Gomes, 44, is charged with causing death by dangerous driving, causing serious injury by dangerous driving and causing death whilst driving when unlicensed.

The charges relate to the death of Tania Macedo, of Welland Place, Ely, who died in a collision on the A10 at Little Thetford at about 7.45pm on October 23 last year.

Gomes, of Welland Place, was due to appear at Cambridge Magistrates' Court on Monday for his first hearing but he failed to show up.

A warrant for his arrest was issued and a police spokesman said that he is now being held in custody.

Team's £1k boost for Ely's Highfield School

TEAM EFFORT:
Team Highfield raised more than £1,000
for Ely's
Highfield School by taking part in the Grunty Fen
Half Marathon.

RUNNERS of all abilities put their best foot forward in the Grunty Fen Half Marathon and Fun Run on Sunday.

While many athletes and competitive runners took part, so did amateur runners, families and children – many to raise funds for charity.

Among the participants in the race, which started and finished at Witchford Village College is now in its 24th year, was Sue Taylor, the college's vice principal.

Droves of the college's students and teachers also took part in the fun run, raising much-needed funds for the British Heart Foundation.

A team of runners also took part in the half marathon to raise money for Ely's Highfield School, which is for children and young people with additional needs.

Team Highfield, made up of four parents, a teacher and two employees of the Pharma Mix Group, raised more than £1,000 to buy educational equipment for the students.

Campaign to revamp ageing village hall

JORDAN DAY

A FUNDRAISING campaign is being launched to help revamp an ageing village hall.

The trustees of Little Downham Village Hall need to raise around £100,000 in order to refurbish the building and carry out much-needed improvements.

The trustees are launching a special fundraising campaign and are urging residents, businesses and organisations to get involved.

Patti Quant, chair of the trustees, said: "We need to raise in the region of £100,000 for the restoration work and the much-needed improvements, and so we are inviting people to 'Buy a brick and help to build a wall'."

"The idea is that sponsors invest £5 per brick and then they have their name on a 'benefactors' board' which will be mounted in the restored building when the work is complete.

REVAMP: Little Downham Village Hall needs around £100,000 spending on it.

"The building is in the centre of the conservation area of the village and dates back to 1779 when it was constructed on the site of the former Guildhall and was designated as a boys' school and the village workhouse.

"In 1866, the workhouse was altered to become a girls' school and it remained a school until the 1960s. After staying empty for a while, the building was converted into the village hall which was officially opened 40 years ago in 1974.

"The trustees are working tirelessly to raise the money needed and promote the hall but we need all the help we can get."

The campaign is being launched at the hall, located in Main Street, at 4pm on Sunday (September 21).

There will be a short PowerPoint presentation explaining the need for the restoration work – and showing the architect's proposed plans.

The audience will then be invited to inspect the plans and to voice their opinions whilst enjoying free wine and canapés.

To support the campaign or for information, call Patti on (01353) 699575.

Motiv8 is running at the centre, based in Stretham High Street, every Wednesday from 7-9pm, and is being funded by the Big Lottery's Awards for All programme.

Josh, 8, raises funds for local charity close to his heart

A SCHOOLBOY who suffers from a form of autism has raised more than £300 for a charity which supports children with similar conditions. Josh Heron, 8, suffers with Autistic Spectrum Disorder, ADHD and Dyspraxia, but that didn't stop him taking part in the Cambridge 1.25km Spartan Kids Race earlier this month. Josh, who lives with his mum and dad, Amy and Justin, in Fordham, decided to take on the challenge to raise money for the Soham branch of the Little Miracles Charity.

He said: "The Little Miracles Charity is a really important charity to me as they help young people with autism, additional needs, disabilities and life limiting conditions across Cambridge, Ely and Newmarket.

"All the money I raise goes towards the group sessions, days out and helping more children in the area." Josh, who is a pupil at Burwell

Pharmacy at St George's at risk

A PHARMACY which faces closure has launched a legal battle in a bid to safeguard its future.

Alchemy Pharmaceuticals, at St George's Medical Centre in Littleport, was given just a few days notice to leave the practice on Wednesday, September 10 – much to the horror of patients.

But on Thursday it was announced that the firm had launched a legal challenge against the decision and that it will remain at the GP surgery, in Parsons Lane, until the matter is settled.

Nobody from Alchemy Pharmaceuticals was available to comment but a statement on the medical centre's website says: "There has been a legal dispute between the GP partnership and Alchemy Pharmaceuticals Ltd (trading as St George's Pharmacy).

JORDAN DAY

"The pharmacy was asked to leave on Wednesday, September 10 but they will remain on the premises until further notice. This dispute is being handled by solicitors.

"We are aware that many of our patients use this service for prescriptions and have found it particularly useful for out of hours or immediate dispensing following a doctor's appointment.

"We are very sorry for the inconvenience that may be caused during this difficult time."

The surgery serves thousands of people, not only in Littleport, but also in many of the surrounding villages, and news that the pharmacy is set to close has angered patients.

Jackie Murfitt, of High Street, said: "Everyone's furious that the pharmacy is going to close.

"We need this pharmacy – Littleport is growing at a phenomenal rate and the village cannot cope without it. Yes we have Lloyds Pharmacy in Main Street, but that isn't enough."

Another resident, who did not want to be named, said: "I really don't want the pharmacy at St George's to close.

"I use it for my prescriptions and if it goes it will affect a lot of people.

"It's also very unfair the way the doctor's surgery is treating it. To suddenly announce that it wants the pharmacy to close is wrong.

"I'm pleased to hear the pharmacy is standing its ground and I hope the news will be that it is staying put."

Let's hope PO plans work out

I UNDERSTAND that Ely's Post Office is hoping to establish itself at Central Hall in Market Street.

Let us hope that the premises will be adequate to allow the Post Office to present itself more positively, and that there will be enough parking close by to allow easy access for the disabled.

At the same time, the Post Office has applied for an extension to the lease of parking places for their Portakabin on Paradise car park; surely they can't stay there for ever?

The shared site in High Street was always inadequate and it was a great shock that there was no proper replacement plan, following the closure in November 2013.

The Portakabin on Paradise car park removed much needed spaces, so I am sure everyone wants the move to take place as soon as possible.

I have worked very hard with the City Council to obtain permanent post office facilities for the city.

Future plans also need to take account of the expected 3,000 homes to the north of Ely.

Run and cycle with us

BY now it is widely known that the Cambridge Triathlon has been cancelled due to river pollution, and there will be many participants who may wish to find an alternative event. Whilst many may have already done so, The Ouse Washes Experience on Sunday September 21st can offer a non-competitive alternative, which whilst not a triathlon, provides an opportunity of doing a duathlon comprising a 8.5Km off road run followed by a 23.5Km cycle ride.

This is a circular route starting in Welney Village and finishing at the WWT visitor centre in Welney, via Welches Dam.

The organisers of the Ouse Washes Experience are more than happy to welcome supporters of Cancer Research UK who were hoping to raise money for this deserving charity.

The entry cost is £25/head.

For more information please contact the organisers owe2014@outlook.com or phone Gary Gardner on 07930 159930 for further details.

Church exhibition

FOLLOWING the Heritage Open Days, there are still two further occasions this month when St Peter's Church, Broad Street, Ely – including an exhibition about the first 125 years of its history – will be open to the public: Saturday 20th and Saturday 27th September from 2-5pm.

The exhibition provides answers to such questions as how an Anglican mission church in the riverside district of Ely came to house the earliest masterpiece of Sir Ninian Comper; how it came about that a future Regius Professor of Divinity took charge of it in the First World War period; what ever happened to the former parish of Ely, Holy Trinity in which it was founded as a 'proprietary chapel', and how, within the past quarter-century, the small congregation of St Peter's has managed to acquire the house next door and open a church room there for community use.

Some of the secrets of the vestry cupboard and the trustees' minutes are unveiled for the first time and some precious oral reminiscences about details of the church's recent past have been set out in writing.

There will be an opportunity at the open afternoons for visitors to contribute further personal memories to the church's archives for future reference, and to show us any memorabilia that they may have concerning St Peter's Church, its Sunday school and activities centred at the former Holy Trinity Parish Room.

FENLAND LIFE: Sue Lees, a visitor to Ely Museum, pictured beside some of the work.

Rich landscape and history of the Fens captured in fascinating new exhibition at Ely Museum

THE history and landscape of the Fens is the focus of a new exhibition at Ely Museum.

Fenland Lives and Land, which is a collaborative project celebrating the heritage, landscape and identity of the Fens, made possible by the Heritage Lottery Fund, is now being showcased at the museum, in Market Street.

The project has involved all the museums of the Fens Museum Partnership and a wide variety of community groups from across the region, from craft guilds to youth groups.

The exhibition is running until late November and the museum is open everyday. For more information, call (01353) 666655 or visit the website: www.fensmuseums.org.uk.

We want a yes, Mr Pickles

WELL, one hurdle past for the bypass to go ahead. After all this time we have a yes vote for it to go ahead.

But one person is still to give his OK and that is a big if as many times he has stopped many projects going ahead.

So I am holding my breath on this one too, as Eric Pickles has not gone along with public wishes on many projects, and some have been in East Anglia, like the one at King's Lynn when he stopped that one.

But Ely's bypass is needed now for Ely to expand, and for getting in to and out of Ely by road to work. It's a lifeline for its future.

I hope Mr Pickles will give his first class approval for this to go ahead without any delays.

Great to have the archives here

IT IS good news that the Cambridgeshire Archives could be finding a new home at Ely. When I was a County Councillor I was concerned that these priceless records and the people who looked after them were regarded as the poor relations of other County Council services.

They were in cramped rooms at the Shire Hall and, with parking in Cambridge being notoriously poor, they were less easy to access by car-borne researchers than they ought to have been.

A new home at Ely would be an enormous improvement, provided that the planned location (unknown at present – why?) is large enough to cope with the inevitable growth of archives, provided that the location can be made sufficiently secure, and provided adequate car parking is available at the location.

Sorry... I'll moan no more

I WISH to apologise to the staff at the ECDC office in Ely who have answered my many angry phone calls complaining about the wheelie bins being left obstructing my driveway – meaning I need to get out of my car and move the bin before driving onto my driveway.

This has occurred more often than no; not just the odd occasion, and the staff have had to deal with my regular complaints. I have now realised that this is part of a secret Government initiative, working with the NHS and Veolia to get us pensioners exercising more.

I'm sorry that I have let this secret out of the bag but I do feel better for this little bit of extra exercise every week.

So no more moaning about the wheelie bins being left blocking my driveway, only a great big thank you for keeping me healthy.

Hospital play area's boost thanks to donation

MUCH APPRECIATED: Lorna Lombardo receives the cheque from Ron Williams, preceptor for the Freemasons Ely United Lodge of Instruction.

VISITING Ely's Princess of Wales Hospital is now a more positive experience for children and young people.

The hospital's children's play area has been upgraded thanks to a £300 donation from the Freemasons Ely United Lodge of Instruction.

Cambridgeshire Community Services NHS Trust has used the money to buy new toys and games for the play area.

Lorna Lombardo, children's champion link nurse at the trust, said: "We drew up a wish list of items that would keep the children entertained while attending the hospital.

"We were thrilled that our request for toys was granted and these have been added to the fun centre donated by the Starlight Foundation.

"I am very grateful for the support I have received from both the local Freemasons and the Starlight Foundation.

"We now have a bright, stimulating, fun environment to welcome the children of the local community to our department."

The toys purchased included DVDs and DSI games for the new fun centre, colouring books and pens, wall charts and numerous toys.

Ron Williams, preceptor for the Freemasons Ely United Lodge of Instruction, said: "We were delighted to be approached by Lorna to see if we could help raise some funds to provide some new toys for the hospital."

Ron said: "We hold an annual supper night and from this we raised £2,300 for local charities and the Princess of Wales Hospital was the local community hospital to benefit from our fundraising."

Plans to expand showman's yard are approved

CONTENTIOUS plans to expand a showman's yard in Soham have been approved – despite fears it could have a detrimental impact on an already busy junction.

Travelling showman Bradley Thurston, of Dolver Farm, Long Dolver Drove, first applied for planning permission to extend his yard in 2012.

The proposals were rejected by East Cambridgeshire District Council but Mr Thurston submitted fresh plans in

JORDAN DAY

January last year.

Two months later, those plans went before the council's planning committee but were deferred amid numerous concerns.

The committee heard that Mr Thurston wanted to extend the yard as his family has increased in size and needed extra space for their trailers and vehicles.

But local residents and Soham Town Council said the proposals should be rejected because of poor access to the site and the impact the extra traffic would have on the junction with Long Dolver Drove and Hasse Road.

Now, despite being recommended to reject the application by planning officer, Ann Caffall, the committee has approved it – subject to numerous conditions.

The committee heard that the Thurston's yard had been in Long Dolver Drove for around 25 years.

The man who died was his front seat passenger, John Joe Scott, 22, of Wingfield Road, Lakenheath.

Samuel was granted bail to return to the courthouse today for sentencing.

SNEAK PEEK: People take a trip up the cathedral's Octagon Tower.

Celebrating our local heritage...

GUIDED walks and moonlight tours saw people of all ages enjoying National Heritage Open Weekend in Ely. The aim of the national scheme is to celebrate and promote England's architecture and culture by offering free access to places that are usually closed to the public or normally charge for admission. Families were able to take part in a feast of activities from Friday evening right the way through to Sunday. Among the venues which participated were the cathedral, Oliver Cromwell House, Ely Museum, the Stained Glass Museum, the Old Palace, St Peter's Church, Ely's courthouse, the Old Porta, St Peter's Church, numbers 7 and 9 in Silver Street and Prior Crauden's Chapel. The activities were co-ordinated by Ely's Tourist Information Centre. For information, call (01353) 662062.

Ely could home county archives

CAMBRIDGESHIRE'S archives could be re-located to Ely in a move being discussed by councillors.

The extensive archives are currently based at Cambridgeshire County Council's headquarters at Shire Hall, in Cambridge.

However, the plan is to move them to an existing building in Ely.

The council says the plans are still at an early stage but that it hopes the new site, which would be an existing building refitted to accommodate the collection, would prove a more cost effective solution than a new build.

Graham Hughes, Cambridgeshire County Council's executive director for economy, transport and environment, said "We've been working hard to find a suitable new home for our archives that's also good value for the Cambridgeshire taxpayer.

"Ely has good transport links and is a rich part of Cambridgeshire's history.

"This new site, if approved, could not only meet our statutory requirements but it also offers wider scope to house other council services at a fraction of the costs of previously considered options."

Cllr Bill Hunt, who lives in Ely and is a county member for Haddenham division, has welcomed the news.

He said: "This is good news for Ely and the whole of East Cambridgeshire. The county's precious archives will not just be readily available to Cambridge residents but in the future to residents of Ely and the surrounding district.

"The future of the archives, which are many hundreds of years old, will also be assured."

Former county councillor, Geoffrey Woollard, who lives in Soham, said: "A new home at Ely would be an enormous improvement, provided that the planned location is large enough to cope with the inevitable growth of archives, provided that the location can be made sufficiently secure, and provided adequate car parking is available at the location."

The council has a statutory responsibility to maintain vital records which date from the 13th century onwards and the authority says there has been a long-standing need to find new accommodation for the collection.

The plans are being considered by the highways and community infrastructure committee next Tuesday.

Peek behind gates of Wilburton Solar Farm

A SOLAR farm is opening its gates to the public tomorrow (Sept 19).

The open day is being held at Wilburton Solar Farm, in Twenty Pence Road, to give people a close-up view of how the solar panels work – and the additional benefits the site has brought to local wildlife.

Capable of generating enough renewable energy to power more than 1,200 households, the first section of Wilburton Solar Farm was installed in 2011. Following the success of phase one, an extension was completed last year – adding extra panels capable of powering a further 5,574 households.

Tim Hughes, who helps run the facilities, said: "We are very proud of what has been achieved here at Wilburton and we hope that the local community will come along and see how a solar farm works and the additional benefits it has brought to the area." The open day is running from 10am-4pm.

Gerd rises to the challenge to help Leukaemia research

JORDAN DAY

A MAN whose wife is battling Leukaemia will be using his pedal power to help fund further research into the disease.

Gerd Ellmore, 42, is taking part in the 100-mile Birmingham Bikeathon on Sunday to raise as much money as he can for the blood cancer charity, Leukaemia and Lymphoma Research.

In September 2012, Gerd's wife, Donna, was diagnosed with Acute Myeloid Leukaemia (AML).

After an ear infection failed to clear up following a round of antibiotics, Donna was referred to Addenbrooke's Hospital for further tests and a consultation with a haematology specialist.

Results from blood tests and a bone marrow biopsy confirmed that she had Leukaemia.

Gerd, who lives with Donna and his children, Eddie, 11, and Eva, 9, in Witchford, said: "We were both shocked at how our lives had been turned upside down in a matter of hours."

"The worst part was sitting our children down and explaining that mummy had cancer of the blood and would be in hospital for at least four or five weeks."

Donna underwent chemotherapy immediately and achieved remission in February 2013. Gerd said: "We spent three weeks in Florida in August to recuperate and have some quality time as a family."

"Donna's hair was growing back and her strength and health was starting to recover a little."

Then in early 2014, Donna began to feel unwell again. Subsequent blood tests revealed the worst – the Leukaemia had returned. She began further chemotherapy treatment and after undergoing a stem cell transplant in August, she is now in recovery.

Gerd said: "If Donna can remain strong through everything she has been through, then the Birmingham Bikeathon challenge is one that I can rise to."

"So far I have raised over £1,900. The reality is that, for many people, AML is a killer, but with more research into better treatments and cures the number of people who can survive this disease can continue to improve."

"If my efforts can help Leukaemia and Lymphoma Research achieve their goal of beating blood cancer then it will all be worthwhile."

Rogue traders: police warning

EAST Cambridgeshire residents are being urged to be vigilant after a number of suspected rogue trading incidents.

Numerous vulnerable residents have been targeted across Cambridgeshire by people charging large amounts of cash for work to be carried out on their homes.

The work is either not carried out at all or done to a poor standard at a fraction of the price charged.

Detective Inspector Sharon Dence said: "Rogue traders target vulnerable people and we would urge residents to look out for their relatives and neighbours, especially if they are elderly or have other vulnerabilities."

"Offenders will often initially charge a small amount but then dramatically increase the price and can become threatening or aggressive if the victim does not hand over the money."

"We would urge people to never allow cold callers into their house or sign up to any work being carried out straight away. We would also encourage people to report suspicious activity by calling police on 101."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Tim Law feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Cambridge, Ely, Saffron Walden, Haverhill, Royston & Newmarket areas and Tim is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Tim a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

LOCAL CALENDARS: Andy Scordellis pictured outside the cathedral

Calendar will raise funds for cathedral

A CALENDAR featuring striking images of Ely is now available to buy.

Andy Scordellis, an artist and illustrator from Hilgay, near Downham Market, has spent months creating the 'Ely and Downham Market 2015 Calendar', and it has now gone on sale.

The calendar has a festive Ely Cathedral scene on the front cover and boasts seven new images of Ely.

Mr Scordellis will be donating 50p from every calendar sold towards the upkeep of the cathedral.

His Downham Market edition of the calendar will be raising funds towards the repair of Denver Windmill.

Both calendars are priced at £9.99 and are available from numerous retailers in Ely, including Toppings and Company Booksellers, the Ely Cathedral Shop, the Tourist Information Centre and Eel Catcher's Daughter.

Ely Foodbank: demand rises

DEMAND on Ely Foodbank is increasing by the week – and with the countdown to harvest now on its volunteers are calling on the public for extra support.

The Ely Foodbank Partnership, which runs foodbanks in Ely, Soham, Littleport, Chatteris, March – and soon Sutton – says that demand from people in crisis is now exceeding supply at roughly the rate of one tonne of food – per month.

Alan Williams, from the partnership, is appealing for extra donations and support as the harvest period approaches.

He said: "The need for crisis food in the area is now exceeding supply by roughly the rate of one tonne of food per month and, as we approach harvest time, the need is for non-perishable foods with at least three months on their expiry date.

"We are very grateful for the regular giving, in terms of both money and food, by members of our local community to help those people who find themselves in short-term food crisis.

"Ely Foodbank Partnership is an unusual 'business' in that it does not want repeat customers, is run entirely by volunteers and is driven by the gifts of shoppers and other donors."

Residents are referred to the foodbank by agencies such as doctors or social workers who are best placed to identify people in crisis.

People can donate by simply dropping off food at the collection points in local supermarkets, schools and churches.

A further recent development is that the partnership has joined forces with PA Answer, based in St Mary's Street, Ely, to offer an answering service – again to keep up with demand.

All calls made between 8.30am and 6pm, Monday to Friday, will be answered immediately by PA Answer staff so callers will always speak to a person, rather than an answer phone.

As previously reported, another foodbank is set to open its doors later this year at The Glebe in Sutton. For information about the foodbank, call (01353) 468626.

X-Factor's Joe McElderry in town next week

X-FACTOR winner Joe McElderry is coming to Soham this month.

The 23-year-old singer/songwriter, who won the sixth series of the ITV show in 2009, will be performing at The Brook on Friday, September 26.

A spokesman for The Brook said: "We're over the moon to have Joe coming to perform here as part of his 2014 Set Your Soul Alive nationwide tour.

"Since storming to victory in front of millions of fans on the TV talent show, Joe has matured into one of the country's most polished and popular singing stars.

"His 2013 tour performed to sell-out, spell-bound audiences with fans giving him a thunderous reception. Joe takes his audience on an emotional rollercoaster, moving effortlessly from romantic ballads to tragic arias."

ABANDONED: The baby rabbits were left in a cardboard box on common land in Soham. Thanks to a passing member of the public and a local vet, they are now being hand-reared and will soon be put up for adoption.

Litter of baby rabbits abandoned in a field

JORDAN DAY

FIVE baby rabbits – too young to survive on their own – were found dumped in a cardboard box in a field.

The RSPCA is appealing for information after the domestic bunnies were abandoned on common land in Soham last Tuesday.

A passing member of the public found them in a cardboard box and took them to the nearby Pet Doctors vets in Fordham Road.

The rabbit kits are thought to be around just three weeks old and the box contained shavings and hairs thought to belong to their mother.

The young animals, one black, another harlequin and the other three agouti or 'wild' coloured, have now been taken to a specialist for hand-rearing.

RSPCA inspector Richard Lythgoe said: "These little things were tiny and were just not old enough to have any chance of fending for themselves. They are still supposed to be feeding off their mum.

"They were clearly dumped, as the box with its shavings shows, and they would have starved to death if this kind-hearted member of the public had not seen them and brought them to safety.

"We urge anyone with any information about how they came to be dumped like this to let us know – it is simply unacceptable to treat animals like this."

Rowena Hope, a veterinary nursing assistant at Pet Doctors, said: "Rabbits are very difficult to look after when they are this young as they need very particular feeds, so we have taken them to a specialist to hand-rear them."

Anyone with any information is urged to call the RSPCA on 0300 123 8018.

Special badge for outdoor centre

MEPAL Outdoor Centre has shown itself to be at the top of the class for educational visits.

The facilities have been awarded a prestigious 'Learning Outside the Classroom Quality Badge'.

Presented by the Council for Learning Outside the Classroom, the award combines learning and safety into an easily recognisable badge for all organisations providing learning outside the classroom experiences.

Alison Brown, a spokeswoman for the centre, said "Being awarded the LOfC Quality Badge is a real coup for all our staff as it shows that we offer young people the type of high quality learning experiences they really benefit from.

"We're thrilled to get official recognition for our efforts and we look forward to welcoming even more young people to our centre."

The LOfC Quality Badge was launched in 2009 as part of the Learning Outside the Classroom Manifesto – an initiative to ensure young people are given more opportunities to have experiences outside the classroom.

Speak up over changes to your Local Plan

A BLUEPRINT designed to shape how the Ely area will grow over the next two decades is to go out to public consultation – again.

The Planning Inspector has advised East Cambridgeshire District Council to make numerous changes to its Local Plan – including more new housing developments in Soham.

The revised document is now going back out to consultation so that local residents, businesses and organisations can have their say on the proposed modifications.

Cllr Tom Hunt, strategic planning member champion at the council, said: "Our latest Local Plan consultation follows feedback from the Planning Inspector on the document we submitted to him earlier this year.

JORDAN DAY

"The inspector asked for the authority to look again at certain areas – the most significant of these changes relate to the inclusion of additional housing sites in Soham.

"I would encourage you to take the time to look at the proposed changes and give your thoughts and comments to help to shape the future development of the district.

"The inspector will consider all comments received in relation to the council's proposed modifications prior to issuing final recommendations in a final report – so this is your time to make a difference."

The Local Plan looks at how much, where and when development should take place. It seeks to ensure development in the district is 'sustainable' by meeting the needs of the area.

To have your say, visit www.eastcamb.gov.uk, email ldf@eastcamb.gov.uk or write to: Forward Planning Team, East Cambridgeshire District Council, The Grange, Nutholt Lane, Ely, CB7 4EE.

Alternatively, pop in to the council offices or call (01353) 665555.

The closing date for comments is Wednesday, October 22.

CAMPAIGN: Claire Wright wants the government to support a controversial technique which could ensure babies do not inherit their mother's faulty genes

'This treatment would give hope to so many'

FREYA LENG AND JORDAN DAY

THE mother of a baby boy who died from a genetic disorder is calling on the Government to support a controversial technique which could prevent babies inheriting potentially fatal conditions.

Claire Wright, of Stewards Close, Sutton, whose son, Jacob, died on April 2, 2012, aged just 16 months after being diagnosed with Leigh's Disease, a form of mitochondrial disease, said if the treatment had been available she would have gone for it.

Earlier this month, ministers debated mitochondrial replacement in Parliament, a technique which allows mothers with a genetic fault in their mitochondria – which act as the power sources for the body's cells – to bear healthy children by replacing the faulty mitochondria in the mother's egg with healthy mitochondria from a donor egg.

Mitochondrial diseases mean cells fail to function and symptoms include poor growth, loss of muscle co-ordination along with visual and hearing problems.

"It's a cruel disease," said Mrs Wright, 40. "The people that have had to suffer because of it deserve hope, and this will give people hope. This technique is so important. It will give families a chance to have a happy, healthy child and the chance of being a family."

Up until he was nine months old, Jacob was a happy baby despite being a bit behind on his development and suffering with hearing problems and having a cataract on his right eye.

SPECIAL FAMILY TIME: Jacob with mum and dad Claire and Bob

But after suffering a few seizures, he went rapidly downhill and spent time at Addenbrooke's and a couple of weeks in intensive care.

His condition affected his brain which in turn affected all his muscles and he suffered from a form of epilepsy causing him to have 20 seizures for up to 20 minutes at a time.

Eventually he lost the ability to smile and make noises and he could not hold his own head up.

Mrs Wright, who works for the Lilly Foundation, which raises money into finding a cure for mitochondrial disease, said: "He was a very happy baby, he had to go through a lot over a short period of time."

Among the ministers supporting mitochondrial replacement is Cambridge's MP Julian Huppert.

He said: "I simply do not understand how opponents of this can argue that they want to continue to inflict that sort of suffering on so many children, because that is the consequence of not finding a way to treat these disorders."

Mrs Wright and her husband Bob, 43, have also set up Team Jacum, which has raised nearly £25,000 for the Lilly Foundation along with East Anglia's Children's Hospices, The Sick Children's Trust and Brainwave charity.

For more information, visit www.justgiving.com/teams/TeamJacum.

Cedric, 73, sees family names on poignant trip up cathedral tower

JORDAN DAY

TAKING a trip up Ely Cathedral's iconic Octagon Tower is a memorable experience for everyone – but for great-grandfather Cedric Tunnell it was particularly poignant.

Scribbled on to one of the walls of the tower is Cedric's name, as well as those of his four brothers, who were all choristers at the cathedral prior to and during the Second World War, and some of whom sadly did not return.

One of the brothers, Dennis, who died in April this year, had told Cedric that their names were graffitied on the wall, but despite only living in nearby Littleport, Cedric had never got round to going up the tower to see it for himself.

Last Tuesday, Cedric was given a guided tour up the tower, where he was not only able to enjoy the stunning views, but also see his family names scratched into the walls.

Cedric, 73, who lives with his wife, Margaret, in The Holmes, said: "It was such a lovely surprise when the cathedral got in touch with me, and the trip up the tower itself was great. "It was actually quite emotional and nostalgic."

Cedric's brother, Leonard, born in 1922, died in October 1944, aged just 22, having been seriously injured fighting in Germany. He was returned home but died six weeks later and is buried in Ely cemetery. He lied about his age so that he could join the army aged just 17.

Dennis, who was born in 1925, served with the RAF during the Second World War and went on to be an electrician. He died earlier this year.

Phillip, who was born in 1931, joined the army and served during the Suez Crisis. He also went on to become an electrician. He died in 1998.

Tom, christened Brian Thomas, was born in 1934. He went into the RAF and then worked in insurance in Ely, then Norwich. All four brothers were choristers at the cathedral.

Cedric worked as a compositor at Jefferson's Print Works in Ely for 29 years, then went on to continue his profession in Bury St Edmunds on the closure of Jefferson's for a further 21 years.

He was the only son not to become a choir boy. The choir school had closed down, the King's School had taken over and his parents could not afford the fees.

There were also two sisters – Phyllis, who was born in 1920 and married and lived locally, and Eileen, who was born in 1927, whose married name is Stubbings and who still lives in the Ely area – in The Vineyards to be precise.

Cedric, who has two children, four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, said: "There were seven of us altogether but it's only Eileen and I left now, so the graffiti was a lovely thing to be able to see."

"I'd like to thank the cathedral for getting in touch with me and organising the tour."

INALA: A Zulu ballet

■ INALA: A Zulu ballet, Cambridge Corn Exchange, Saturday, October 4, at 7.30pm. Tickets £22-£25 from (01223) 357851 / cornex.co.uk.

ONCE in a while, an unexpected hit show comes along that ignites the public's imagination and becomes a sell-out phenomenon. One such show is INALA: a Zulu ballet, says ANDREW BURTON.

Presented by Ladysmith Black Mambazo with current and former dancers from The Royal Ballet and Rambert, INALA received its world premiere at this year's Edinburgh International Festival where all preview performances sold out, and now it's coming to Cambridge Corn Exchange.

The Guardian's 4-star review hailed it a "dynamic marriage of contemporary dance and choral music", while the Evening Standard praised its "irresistible" singing, and the Telegraph enthused: "Ladysmith Black Mambazo are a constant generous presence – those voices soaring out as never before is a thing of stirring beauty. . . If the ecstatic first-night reception is anything to go by it will be a massive hit."

INALA is an uplifting celebration of South Africa's ancestry and hopes for the future, brought to life by performers at the pinnacle of their careers. Ladysmith were brought to international acclaim through their collaboration with Paul Simon on his Graceland album in 1986 and won their fourth Grammy Award in January this year for Best World Music Album.

"It has always been our mission to spread our South African culture as widely as possible, so it is very important for us to bring INALA to the UK and then the rest of the world. We look forward to giving our audiences a new experience," says Ladysmith founder Joseph Shabalala.

Ladysmith sing in Zulu and remain on stage throughout the 70-minute performance, along with nine dancers and five instrumentalists.

Choreographer Mark Baldwin remarks: "I am inspired by music and the more I listened to Ladysmith in the early days of the project, the more I realised this style of singing really is suited to dancing. The dancers mix African moves with classical and contemporary dance, using warrior and animalistic poses to reflect the wildlife and culture of South Africa."

The production is the brainchild of British composer, Ella Spira and first artist of the Royal Ballet, Pietra Mello-Pittman. INALA, meaning 'abundance of goodwill' in Zulu, fuses western contemporary and traditional Zulu dance and music, to create a unique, immersive experience reflecting both cultures.

THE RIOT CLUB (15, 107 mins)

THE class war degenerates into foul-mouthed tirades and stomach-churning violence in Laura Wade's robust adaptation of her own coruscating stage play.

Posh originated at the Royal Court Theatre in London in 2010 and was revived two years later in the West End, painting a vivid portrait of a fictional dining clique akin to the Bullingdon Club at Oxford University, which once included David Cameron, George Osborne and Boris Johnson in its notorious ranks.

Lone Scherfig's film, retitled The Riot Club, packs a similar emotional wallop to its stage-bound predecessor, detonating pent-up testosterone and tempers with horrifying repercussions.

Wade has fleshed out key protagonists and excised some scenes entirely to reduce the running time by 40 minutes.

There seems to be a greater emphasis on the fledgling romance between the most likable male character and a down-to-earth northern lass (Holliday Grainger), who is dazzled by the dreaming spires and gushes: "Being at Oxford is like being invited to 100 parties all at once – and I want to go to all of them."

The Riot Club is not a party most of us would wish to attend. But that's the point. Alistair Ryle (Sam Claflin) arrives at Oxford, hoping to emulate his older brother, a former president of the titular fraternity. This hush-hush 10-strong dining club honours the memory of its libidinous 18th century founder by boozing to excess at an annual dinner, trashing the venue and paying for the damages out of their trust funds.

Given his lineage, Alistair is almost certain to catch the eye of Riot Club president James Leighton-Masters (Freddie Fox).

However, it is dashing classmate Miles Richards (Max Irons) from more humble stock, who steals Alistair's thunder and arouses the homosexual yearnings of influential club member Hugo Fraser-Tyrwhitt (Sam Reid).

Alistair and Miles pass initiation and are inducted into the ranks alongside Harry Villiers (Douglas Booth), Guy Bellingfield (Matthew Beard), Toby Maitland (Olly Alexander), Dimitri Mitropoulos (Ben Schnetzer) and George Balfour (Jack Farthing).

The students head to a country pub run by Chris (Gordon Brown) and his daughter Rachel (Jessica Brown Findlay), who have no idea of the devastation about to be wrought.

The Riot Club is a sobering attack on a culture of inherited privilege and power in Britain.

Scherfig's film dissects how our egalitarian society is founded on secret handshakes in wood-panelled rooms far from the madding electorate, and you can almost see the venom streaking down the camera lens when one inebriated club member sneers, "I am sick to death of poor people!"

The Danish filmmaker, who previously helmed the Oscar-nominated coming-of-age story An Education, doesn't spare the morally repugnant characters any blushes.

A climactic showdown is just as jaw-dropping in lurid cinematic close-up as it was from the safe distance of the theatre's upper circle.

Protect pollinators

We know bees, hoverflies and other beneficial insects provide a welcome sight for gardeners in spring and summer, pollinating our flowers and helping us to reap rich harvests, but these valued species also need plenty of protection in the winter to ensure they return in years to come.

As part of Wild About Gardens Week, the Royal Horticultural Society (RHS) and The Wildlife Trusts (TWT) are urging people to do more to support the UK's vital pollinators during the cooler months.

RHS senior entomologist Andrew Salisbury says: "Pollinators and other invertebrates need sheltered places to spend the cold winter months. By being a little less tidy, particularly around the base of hedges and in garden borders, creating bug hotels and log piles, we can provide much needed overwintering sites, giving pollinators a head start in the spring."

The two organisations have produced a winter survival guide for the UK's 1,500 species of pollinating insects. People with outside spaces are urged to:

by Hannah Stephenson

■ Make an insect hotel or overwintering habitat – insect hotels provide shelter and overwintering habitats for many pollinators. WAG week is featuring a 'build a bug hotel' competition to encourage gardeners, schools and community groups to get building and share photographs of their projects to inspire others to get involved. More details about the competition can be found at www.wildaboutgardens-week.org.uk/buildabughotel. Entries close on October 31.

■ Create log piles – some pollinating insects nest or overwinter in dead wood and many uncommon insects such as the stag beetle rely on it for a large part of their lifecycle. Half bury some logs, leave dead wood where it falls, and keep tree stumps in place.

■ Cut back on the cutting back – instead of cutting flower borders back in late autumn, leave the dead stems all winter until early spring. The hollow stems of perennial plants provide shelter for overwintering insects.

■ Let your lawn grow – leave a long patch over the winter, before cutting it back, resuming mowing in early spring and it'll help many creatures hibernate.

■ Ensure your garden contains a wide range of plants, trees and shrubs that produce pollen and nectar resources throughout the year. Autumn and winter nectar plants to consider include: Spanish traveller's joy (Clematis cirrhosa), winter-flowering crocus (Crocus species), ivy (Hedera helix), Purpus honeysuckle (Lonicera x purpusii), Michaelmas daisy (Aster), perennial sunflower (Helianthus x laetiflorus), winter aconite (Eranthis hyemalis) and sweet box (Sarcococca confusa).

■ Be considerate to dandelions and nettles, which are crucial for many pollinators.

A recent study highlighted that 24% of European bumblebee species are at risk of extinction and we have already lost 23 bee and flower-visiting wasp species in Britain.

Paul Wilkinson, The Wildlife Trusts' head of living landscape, says: "The provision of nectar-rich flowers combined with equal effort to restore and create 'home' habitats – including food plants for caterpillars and undisturbed ground for hibernating bees – is a winning combination."

"Although the importance of bees is now widely recognised, let's also give credit to and raise awareness of our lesser-known pollinators, including the peacock butterfly, hummingbird hawk moth and marmalade hoverfly."

"Ultimately, it's looking after the 'small stuff' which helps to create a healthier bigger picture for wildlife and the natural environment. Collectively, our gardens make up the biggest nature reserve in the UK. Let's make it the biggest and best it can be."

■ Wild About Gardens Week runs from September 15-21. TWT and RHS will be offering free advice and resources via the website www.wildaboutgardens.org.uk

Greens battle to see off Maldon & Tiptree

DANIEL Brown struck five minutes from the end to secure a 2-1 success for Soham at Maldon & Tiptree in the Ryman League, North Division last Saturday.

The Greens fell behind with only 10 minutes on the clock, before a good strike from Ryan Sharman made it all square at the interval.

Soham's cause was boosted further early in the second period when the hosts had a man shown a straight red card for a bad tackle on Kojo Ofori-Gyasi.

And they were able to claim maximum points as Brown got the game's decisive third goal in the nick of time. "It was a hard-earned win," said Soham manager Steve Fallon.

"We didn't start very well for the first half an hour, and their goal was a good team goal. But the equaliser lifted us and we went on from there.

"We're improving all the time and we've got a decent squad.

"We've got a little bit of competition for places, which is what you need, and you've got to be able to change things when things aren't going your way.

But the Greens were unable to build on that victory when they succumbed 3-1 to leaders Needham Market at Julius Martin Lane on Tuesday night.

Luke Stanley put the Greens ahead in only the second minute, but they were pegged back immediately and conceded two more goals in the second half, Ofori-Gyasi getting sent off 14 minutes from the end.

"Sometimes you've got to hold your hands up and say 'well played' to the opposition," said Fallon. "They'll be up there as they've got some very good players."

There was no joy for Ely last Saturday in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division as they suffered a 3-1 home defeat to Thetford.

One piece of good news was a

Off: Soham's Kojo Ofori-Gyasi was dismissed as his side lost 3-1 to Needham Market on Tuesday night.

promising debut from striker James Carman, who scored with the last kick of the game.

"James did all right," said Ely manager Brady Stone.

"He scored on his debut, but it takes a while to step up from the Kershaw League to the Thurlow Prem. He'll be a good asset to the club."

And another defeat followed for the Robins on Tuesday night as they went down 4-2 to Mid-Anglia rivals Newmarket.

The Jockeys opened the scoring in the first minute through Mark Webster.

James Tricks levelled with a fine finish in the 37th minute, but two goals in the final four minutes of the half put Newmarket in control.

Debutant Luke Parkinson got the first against his former club and Lee Clift added another on the stroke of half time.

The hosts grabbed a fourth in the second half before Josh Townsend netted Ely's second late on.

Tigers start season with Warriors win

CHARLIE Coupland and Joel Scott Paul scored two tries apiece as Ely won 48-3 against Woodbridge Warriors in Greene King IPA Eastern Counties One.

The Tigers opened the scoring within the first five minutes, with an inside ball to man-of-the-match Nathan Brooks allowing him to touch down. Scott Paul added the conversion.

After knocking on, Ely turned the subsequent scrum over and John Dibb made a break from No 8, and possession moved through Kev Houghton to Matt McCarthy, who took the inside pass to cross the line. Scott Paul converted.

Ely's scoring continued when Ricky Neale took a crash ball from a recycled breakdown to step through the gap to off-load to stand-in captain Scott Paul, who sprinted down the wing for an unconverted try.

Then, an inside ball to Lee Coulson allowed him to break the line and off-load to Coupland, who went over the line, beneath the posts, and the extras were also added.

Strong counter-rucking saw debutant Rob Baker steal the ball and get it wide to winger Scott Paul, who dodged three tackles before getting his second try.

He added the conversion and then a penalty before the half was out.

Ely's start to the second half was sloppy.

A lot of dropped ball kept the Tigers from gaining any territory.

Woodbridge fought their way back and Ely conceded a penalty in their own twenty-two. The Warriors got their first and only points of the game.

The Tigers regained their structure, and fly-half Kieran Kennett threw a bullet pass to Coupland, who ran straight through the Woodbridge defence to touch down.

Ely earned a penalty try after a dominant rolling maul was collapsed before the line, and Scott Paul's conversion completed the 48-3 win.

Perry points the way for Rovers

LEWIS Perry blasted five as Haddenham Rovers saw off Chatteris Town 8-0 in Cambridge & District Colts League 13B.

Perry scored from headers with the crosses provided by Adam Clark, and the other two saw him use speed and strength to go past defenders and put it past the keeper.

Clark scored an absolute scorcher when Jai Fretwell headed the ball down to him, hitting it on the volley on the edge of the box and into the top far corner.

Aaron Pugh's goal came when the ball was cleared out of the box by the Chatteris defence and he drilled it home from outside the area.

Max Allen added one as well, starting and finishing the move which saw him combine with Fretwell after winning the ball from a Chatteris player in midfield and making a run into the box to score.
